

Mr Zwiebel,

Although the attached paper is perhaps a bit on the light-hearted and trivial side for a publication as weighty as "The Onion," I thought that a few of its more sensationalist claims might catch your attention and you might encourage me to dig more deeply into the topics treated humorously herein.

Am looking forward to hearing back from you with your accustomed rapid turnaround of less than two years for a first response.

Sincerely,

Christopher D. Carroll
Department of Economics
Johns Hopkins University
Baltimore, MD 21218-2685
1-410-516-7602 (o)
1-410-516-7600 (f)
ccarroll@jhu.edu

PS. The paper as submitted is certainly too short for publication in an outlet like "The Onion" which is known for the depth and long-windedness of its articles. It will be easy to pad it out with further theorems and other results as you may request.